

Desert monk near Thebes, Egypt. Hermit outside the city walls of Constantinople. His reputation for holiness attracted a number of monks and other students, who then provided help to the poor, sick and needy of the area.

He died from natural causes.