

I am afraid of this world full of evil, selfishness, greed, hatred, and disorderly pleasures.

Millions of hearts succumb every day to the strength of temptation. My own heart has often fallen into the nets of sin.

That's why I'm asking you, Lord, for my brothers and for myself. To free us from evil, to surround us with love, and to live like children.

Help us, Father, in this hour of darkness and confusion, where it's difficult to find light and assurance.

Help us, Jesus Christ, to become messengers of your love so that we may stop thinking selfishly and we may serve our brethren.

Light us, Holy Spirit, so that The Pope, bishops, and priests lead us to the light and fill the world with a faith that maintains hope and generates true love.

Mary, Holy Virgin, lead us to grace and help us go out and seek the needy. Teach us to be humble and to always seek for truth.

We were created so that we could love each other and so that we could love You. Don't let the evil one guide us into sin and destroy every wonderful thing you have planned for each one of us.

Father, Son, and Holy Spirit defeat evil with that purifying fire that erases sin, generates saints, and leads to eternal life. Amen.