

In life, there are moments of peace and moments of turbulence, moments of triumph and moments of failure.

Within the soul, or around us, some facts allow you to live serenely or to deeply disturb.

Beyond the external facts and closer to the movements of the soul, God is always within our reach.

We can find it in the memory of so many benefits, starting with the wonderful gift that was the beginning of our human existence.

We glimpse it in thousands of signs of the sky, with its immense distances, and of the earth, with its richness of life and of harmonies.

We touch it in so many good people who reach out to us, who listen to us, understand, even support us after a sin.

We hear it in that always fresh and always alive gospel that speaks to every human generation and whispers comfort to our hearts.

We glimpse it in thousands of signs of the sky, with its immense distances, and of the earth, with its richness of life and of harmonies.

We touch it in so many good people who reach out to us, who listen to us, understand, even support us after a sin.

We hear it in that always fresh and always alive gospel that speaks to every human generation and whispers comfort to our hearts.

The problems, surely, are still there. But the way to cope with everything that happens in our lives is completely diverse when we embrace the humble and strong presence of a God always at our fingertips.